Column One By David Courtney

COLONEL Nasser is tired. He has been on vacation. A great many people here and in Cairo must be tired and should go on vacation. It is a tiring and tedious part of the world we live in, and everyone needs a rest. The cease-fire has helped. They tell me the settlers on this side are out in the fields working comfortably and the herdsman on the other side are grazing with their flocks in the dry, pretty pastures. But cease-fires are fragile things. The pressure of a little finger on a little piece of metal is enough to break them to pieces.

FOR my part I hope Colonel Nasser has a nice holiday, and that when it ends he will feel refreshed and strong. I don't suppose he wants any more than Mr. Sharet or Mr. Ben-Gurion wants it. For that matter, I don't suppose there are two people on either side of the border that want war and don't want peace and prefer conditions along their frontiers with Israel that resemble a kind of tribal vendetta. It is a dangerous preference. It nearly led to war last week and could easily lead to war next time. Colonel Nasser, I am sure, realizes that; and if only he dared show more courage than his Arab League colleagues and indeed Arab guidance — he could put an end to a situation that has become ridiculous and may become unbearable.

ANYWAY, the guns are silent for the moment and the lordly ones of Jerusalem, Cairo, and Baghdad are sitting at home and thinking matters out. They have not much time to think. They have often thought matters out in the past, but now it needs some really serious thinking and some really serious doing, not merely a verbal exercise. The resolution that nobody takes effective notice of. General Burns, for example, did as much as any man could to give substance to the last Security Council resolution on the Gaza conflict, but when Colonel Gohar came along and said he had enough of it that was the end of the resolution and of all General Burns' efforts to make the resolution work.

MOREOVER the last fortnight's incidents and consequent tension have been of a kind that leaves no doubt as to the responsibility for the trouble, and from that it can be argued that any attempt by the United Nations or the Western Powers separately, to bring about pacification must depend in the first place on Egypt's readiness to accept the fact that it is probably fair to say that the Egyptian Government does indeed prefer a quiet to an uneasy frontier. It may not be for this hard enough to do what is necessary on its side of the border to ensure quiet. It is so, it should be left to Israel to accelerate the preference by such means as Fagan Yunes. The acceleration should be the responsibility of the United Nations or the Western Powers which claim the Middle East as a sphere of influence and are seeking to make allies and enemies as possible of the Middle East's component nations.

ALL this, to be sure, is part of the composition of international politics. But at some point international politics become a matter of acute interest to the herdsman on the other side of the dry grass and the settler on this side spraying his young oranges. For when all is said, great governments and great world organizations like U.N. can only justify themselves in the opinion of the people within their range on what they do for the people who are without being shot at.

ESHKOL FOR U.S.

Mr. Levi Eshkol, Minister of Finance, flew to the U.S. yesterday to give the major address at the State of Israel Bonds annual national mobilization conference which is to be held in Washington from Friday to Sunday.

Other speakers at the conference will be Ambassador Abba Eban and Mr. Edward Warburg, United Jewish Appeal leader. Mr. Eshkol, who plans to return home at the end of the month, will attend to problems of fundraising for Israel and other Treasury matters.

Greeks Dub Curfew 'Operation Too Late'

By IRIS E. BUNSELL
Jerusalem Post Correspondent

NICOSIA, Tuesday. — More than 1,000 British troops, in almost total silence, moved to the back doorstep at four o'clock this morning when they clamped down on the 16-hour curfew in the suburb of Strovolos, adjoining the hands-on, domed Government House. It was the first daytime curfew in the island's history, and the first curfew in Nicosia since the 1951 riots.

As is usual when the British Army intervenes in these peace-time missions, the operation was carried out with warlike precision and thoroughness. For 14 hours, there was no one on the streets of the suburb of 4,500 residents — except troops, policemen, radio cars, jeeps and an army of machine-guns and rifles. The aim of this punitive measure was to bring some to town dwelling Greek Cypriots the shape of things to come, and also to try to find arms, explosives and weapons.

The search produced no results. Sullen, defiant, pyjama-clad Cypriots carried off the search. At 8 p.m., authorities called off the curfew.

Everyone concerned has had quite enough by now, said Brigadier Gregson, in command of the operation, which was given no code name. Unofficially, it was referred to as "Operation Toothcomb." Greek Cypriots, however, called it "Operation Too Late." They have certainly had plenty of time to prepare for operations of this nature, since terrorism began in this colony five months and more ago. When the curfew tonight, the Greeks are not yet clear. What it showed to the authorities was distressingly plain. It was a warning that the Greeks were determined to implement a curfew on a suburb of Nicosia, many more than the 4,500 now based on the island would be required to impose and effectively maintain an island-wide curfew.

Official sources tonight stated that the authorities obtained "much useful information" during "Operation Toothcomb."

80 Algerians Flown Out of Paris

PARIS, Tuesday (Reuters). — Eighty Algerians who were arrested in Paris yesterday for aiding the Algerian rebels by propaganda and fund-raising in the capital, were flown under a police guard from Orly Airport to France today in a plane tumbling down a "flying prison" for the journey.

Before the plane took off from a special runway, police armed with machine-guns mounted guard on all the roads leading to it. The Algerians guarded by ten policemen during their journey will be placed on arrival at the disposal of M. Harard, an Algerian examining magistrate, who will inquire into the charges against them. Other Algerians arrested in Lyons and Marseilles during yesterday's nation-wide sweep will be flown directly from those towns to Algeria. Police yesterday checked the identities of thousands of North Africans living in France, and detained hundreds of others in a vast operation designed to snare a racket that levies tribute on Algerian workers in France to supply funds for terrorist organizations. The racketeers extorted money by threats, organized a boycott of shopkeepers and cafe owners who refused to pay up, and in some cases resorted to physical assault, even murder, according to the Ministry of Interior.

Truce Teams Leave Two South Korean Towns

SEOUL, Tuesday (Reuters). — U.S. Air Force planes today flew members of neutral inspection teams to Panmunjom from Kangsan and Taegu, in accordance with a decision last Saturday to end the use of these South Korean towns by the teams.

India May Leave Indo-China Truce Body—Nehru

NEW DELHI, Tuesday (Reuters).

"We accepted the chairmanship of the Indo-China Commission on the basis of the Geneva Armistice Agreement. If the Agreement does not function, indeed, the whole structure of the past collapse," India's Prime Minister, Jawaharlal Nehru, declared today in the Upper House of the Indian Parliament, opening the foreign affairs debate.

The Premier of South Vietnam, Ngo Dinh Diem, has refused to accept the North Vietnamese Communist authorities on next year's all-Vietnam elections, as laid down by the Geneva Agreement. India and the U.S. and Britain have urged him to change his attitude, the Prime Minister reported.

'Peaceful Means'

"The fact that we have chosen peaceful means to all parties," Mr. Nehru added, "and it is wrong for one side to accept the advantages without trying to do so."

In the debate on Goa, the Prime Minister announced that India would confine itself to peaceful means to end Portuguese sovereignty over Goa. He ruled out police or military action, and said that he opposed either individual or mass sabotage (passive resistance) demonstrations.

Review of World Position

In a review of the world situation, Mr. Nehru stated that, though the Geneva summit Conference had arrived at no decision, it did bring a relaxation of international tension; that his cordial reception on his recent visit to Russia was, he believed, a sign of the world's desire for peace, and that developments in North Africa and elsewhere were "grave, unhappy and dangerous" something must be done, but he had no solution to offer.

Later, the Council of States—Upper House of the Indian Parliament—approved the Russian general foreign policy by a unanimous vote, but there was a barrage of opposition criticism to the debate of Nehru's policy on Goa.

Burma Trade Delegation Off to Europe

LYDDA AIRPORT, Tuesday. — The 16-member Burmese trade delegation headed by the Minister for Foreign Affairs, U Nu, left today for Europe.

The delegation, which includes the Minister for Trade, Mr. Min Gang, left today for Yugoslavia, Czechoslovakia, Hungary, East Germany and the U.S.S.R. Apart from the only country to be visited by the delegation.

The visitors, who were here as guests of the Government, were seen off at the airport by Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru, Dr. B. R. Ambedkar, the former Minister to Burma, Mr. David Hachem, M.P., the Burmese Charge d'Affaires, and other officials.

Reuther Impressed By Israel, Histadrut

LYDDA AIRPORT, Tuesday. — Members of the Congress of Industrial Organizations (C.I.O.) delegation headed by Mr. Walter Reuther, left Israel today for France, Italy and Switzerland, where they will meet representatives of anti-Communist trade unions.

Mr. Reuther said he was impressed with Israel's progress and with the work of the Histadrut. The other members of the delegation who left were Mrs. Reuther, Mr. D. Benedict and Mr. and Mrs. J. Brophy. They were seen off at the airport by Mr. E. E. Weizmann, General of the Histadrut, Mr. R. Barkat, head of the Histadrut Political Department, Mr. E. C. Martinson, U.S. Labour Attaché, and members of the Histadrut Executive.

Truant Scientific Balloon Bobbing Around 20 Miles Above Canada

MINNEAPOLIS, Minnesota, Tuesday (UPI). — Scientists today waved goodbye today to a huge runaway balloon which has been bobbing 20 miles above the ground with a cargo of mice and guinea pigs for six days.

The balloon took off for Canada last night, and the Air Force announced it might be shot down, even if it gets low enough for a jet plane's guns to hit it.

That left the balloon, and its cargo up in the air until leakage or some other cause brings it down. Scientists for the Winona Research, Inc., which launched the balloon, said it might take a week for that to happen. In the meantime, an advancing cold front appeared likely to wait the balloon all the way to the Atlantic Coast.

The scientists had given up hope for the 15 live mice and guinea pigs who went up with the 20-story high balloon at International Falls, Minn., on Thursday.

The animals undoubtedly died because of lack of oxygen, the scientists said, but they wanted

550 Dead in U.S. Holiday Accidents

CHICAGO, Tuesday (UPI). — Deaths in Labor Day weekend traffic accidents in the United States have surpassed safety experts' fears of 500, and are climbing towards more than the record 600 in 1954. In Chicago alone, who died in plane crashes, drownings and other miscellaneous mishaps, the toll by midnight last night was 550.

Jordan Plan Changed To Satisfy Arabs

Ambassador Eric Johnston, President Eisenhower's Special Representative in the Middle East, said in Beirut last night that after spending three days with the Lebanese leaders, a considerable degree of agreement had been reached on the Jordan River development scheme, NEADS reports.

Important alterations had been made in his original proposal of 1953 in order to meet the Arab demands, he said. Mr. Johnston added that the Arabs should not lightly object to using Lake Kinjarut as a reservoir for the area's waters, but should give it the most thorough study.

Mr. Johnston stated that he was ready to introduce more alterations to allow the Lebanese people to have the same good for Russia.

In seeking Russia's friendship, Egypt would never accept the infiltration of Communist ideology into her land as the price for it, he said.

2nd Egyptian Soldier Deserts to Israel

An Egyptian corporal deserted his unit stationed at the Khan Yunis police depot in the Gaza Strip yesterday morning, and crossed the Armistice Line to Israel, where he surrendered to Israel Defence Forces, the Army spokesman announced.

He is the second Egyptian soldier to desert to Israel during the past week.

Our Beersheba correspondent reports that the Palestinian Electric Company and the Mekorot water company are working day and night to repair water installations in the border area, damaged by Egyptian marauders during the past fortnight.

A scheme whereby babies will visit their parents in the country this month to convey New Year Greetings to patients was initiated on Monday when Chief Rabbi Tzvi Hershman, Tel Aviv, called on the victims of the recent attacks by Egyptian marauders.

NAMES OF LATEST ISRAELI VICTIMS

The names of the two Israeli soldiers who were killed on Sunday when they were erroneously crossed by Egyptian forces, were reported by the Army spokesman to be Benjamin Heyman and Shlomo Frankel. Heyman will be buried in the Military Cemetery on Monday at 11 a.m. today.

The bodies were returned to Israel with "full military honours" the same day by the Egyptian authorities.

No Decision On Knesset Session

The question of convening a special session of the Knesset to review the security and political situation was discussed yesterday by the Knesset Foreign Affairs and Defence Committee, meeting in Tel Aviv with the participation of the Prime Minister and Minister for Foreign Affairs, Mr. Moshe Sharet. The Minister of Defence, Mr. David Ben-Gurion, did not attend because of indisposition.

The committee will make a final decision on a special session at its next meeting after its opinion has been presented to the Government for consideration.

At yesterday's meeting, Mr. Sharet reviewed the political situation and a general discussion was held.

Egypt Sparked Mefalsim Incident

Resolutions condemning both Israel and Egypt for the Mefalsim incident of August 22, in which three Egyptian soldiers were killed and nine wounded and two Israeli soldiers wounded, and finding that the incident was touched off when an Egyptian position opened fire on a routine Israeli patrol, were adopted by the Israel-Egypt Mixed Armistice Commission meeting at Km. 98 on Monday. The meeting, which began at 8.45 a.m. on Monday, ended 15 hours later, and the resolutions were only released yesterday.

'Egypt Ready to Buy Arms from Anyone'

CAIRO, Tuesday (Reuters). — Lieut-Col. Anwar Sadat, Egyptian Minister of State and a member of the Revision Committee, said today that Egypt would buy arms from anyone she wished.

Writing in "Al-Tahrir," an independent weekly, he said, "If necessary, we will follow the example of Churchill, the United States' greatest friend, who once declared that he would not hesitate to make an alliance with the devil if that meant freedom and victory for his country."

The Minister criticized the U.S. for objecting to any move by Egypt to buy arms from Russia while Israel was getting arms from the East and the West.

Referring to remarks on August 30 by the U.S. Secretary of State, Mr. John Foster Dulles, that his Government would not be very happy about any possible offer of arms by Russia to Arab states, Col. Sadat said, "When Egypt, extends the hand of friendship towards the U.S. it does not mean that the price should be participation in peace and alliances against the Russian people, and the same goes for Russia."

In seeking Russia's friendship, Egypt would never accept the infiltration of Communist ideology into her land as the price for it, he said.

Resume Israel-Egypt Talks, France Says

By MAURICE GARR
Jerusalem Post Correspondent

PARIS, Tuesday. — The U.N. Security Council will probably meet this week at the insistence of General K. L. M. Burns, U.N. Chief of the Truce Supervision Organization, who considers the Gaza situation still precarious. A Quai d'Orsay spokesman said today, "France will advance resumption of the Israel-Egypt talks, he added."

The spokesman thought that Egypt had toned down the violence of the Voice of the Arabs broadcast, on the Moroccan situation during the past few days in the hope that France would adopt a more moderate attitude in the Security Council.

Egyptian Prime Minister Gamal Abdel Nasser has claimed, however, that he has no control over the broadcasts, and the French believe that he is hampered by the Muslim Brotherhood and other extremists.

The Syrian President, Hukri el-Kuwatly, has twice received the French Ambassador and listened with apparent sympathy to protests against Damascus Radio's murderous appeals to the North African insurgents. Iraq met a similar French démarche on their North African intervention with utter intransigence.

It is understood in Jerusalem that General Burns does not plan to attend the Security Council sessions unless he is invited to do so by the Council.

The Arab News Agency reports from Cairo that Foreign Minister Mahmoud Fawzi, and the Director of the Palestine Affairs Department in the War Ministry, Col. Salah Gohar, will leave for the United Nations Headquarters in New York on September 13.

West, U.N. Chief Consult on Tension

LONDON, Tuesday (Reuters). — America, Britain, France and the United Nations Secretary-General, Mr. Dag Hammarskjöld, are consulting with each other on the next steps towards easing Egyptian-Israeli tension, the Foreign Office said today.

The Security Council is not likely to deal with the cease-fire between Israel and Egypt but the progress by General E.L.M. Burns, Chief of the Truce Supervision Organization for preventing further frontier skirmishes.

Kuwatly Begins Term On Safe (Anti-Israel) Note

DAMASCUS, Tuesday (Reuters). — Hukri el-Kuwatly, newly elected President, began his term of office today by accusing Israel of repeated criminal aggression against the Arab States.

Speaking in parliament, Kuwatly said that war had broken out in the Gaza area, and Israel was repeating her aggressive acts on many of her frontiers in violation of the Armistice Agreements.

On battles with Israel in the Gaza area, President Kuwatly declared he considered Egypt the representative of all Arab States.

Referring to North Africa, he said that all people enjoyed freedom and independence. Instead of force and aggression, peaceful negotiation and regard for humanity should be the instruments for settling disputes between nations.
